Artists and designers are rallying for various causes this week. At Sean Kelly Gallery, an auction in support of LGBTQ rights has garnered enthusiastic donations from top talents, including Ed Ruscha and Cindy Sherman, while on the Upper East Side, the Holiday House interior designer showcase celebrates ten years of raising money for breast cancer research. As for art fairs, there are two in town: The European Fine Art Fair (TEFAF) is coming to the Park Avenue Armory, while the Fine Art Print Fair will take place at the Javits Center. And for those who can't wait until the Whitney Museum opens its blockbuster Andy Warhol exhibition next month, Dia is offering a taster this week with an installation of the artist's famous "Shadow" series.

8. Fantastic Art Revisited: Exhibiting Old Masters and Contemporary Art The Kitchen

Nicholas Hall, a specialist in the field of Old Masters and 19th-century art, and Yuan Fang present a fascinating symposium in conjunction with "Endless Enigma: Eight Centuries of Fantastic Art" at David Zwirner. Curators and directors from some of the world's leading institutions—the Met, Wadsworth Atheneum Museum of Art, MoMA, J. Paul Getty Museum—will discuss the current exhibition and the legacy of Alfred H. Barr Jr.'s 1936 MoMA exhibition, "Fantastic Art, Dada, Surrealism."

Where: The Kitchen, 512 West 19th Street

When: Saturday, October 27, 12:30–6 p.m.
